Bahinabai Literary Awards given to outstanding Marathi writers

"At Jain Irrigation, corporate social responsibility is not merely a matter of an obligation to be fulfilled or an account to be presented to society. We firmly believe that we are indebted to society for our existence, survival and success. We have experienced that we have an invisible bond with the society. This bond inevitably leads us to a natural relationship of empathy. It impels the corporation to understand and appreciate social issues and problems. It results in our being part and parcel of the society's progression through the process of inclusive growth. This philosophy is born out of our Mission Statement, formulated twenty-five years ago – "Leave this world better than you found it." We realize that happiness is not a destination. It cannot be travelled to, cannot be earned, loaned or owned. It cannot be worn or consumed. It has to be experienced – and we are experiencing it." Bhavarlal H. Jain, Founder Chairman

Agriculture & Rural Development Creating Shared Value

Corporate social responsibility is imbedded and is a part of our corporate strategy as we work for 'creating shared values' from the very inception of our business. For example, drip irrigation not only solves the water-food-energy nexus, but brings prosperity to the farmers. Most of the farmers we work with have small land holdings. These farmers are at the bottom of the pyramid as per the definition of classical economics. But to work with them and bring prosperity in their lives is more than CSR to us. The happy farmer is our reward. Thus, our strategy of CSR is integrated, interwoven and inter related to our business for creating a sustainable society of the future. Some steps which we have undertaken towards this direction are enumerated below

Training, R&D : At JISL, farmers and other stakeholders are trained at an in-house training facility of the sprawling 2000 acres Jain R&D farms in Jalgaon, Maharashtra and R&D farm at Udumalpeth and Tamil Nadu. We undertake research trials and demonstration jointly with Agriculture Universities and innovative farmers on their farms. Till date more than hundred thousand people have been trained at the R&D and Demonstration Centre, Jain Hills over the last 15 years. This has had a ripple effect on the thought process of farmers and even the policy makers.

Harvard Visit of Farmers : Two successful farmers were invited to Harvard Business School, USA to showcase how technology and innovative cultivation methods transformed their lives. They made a full scale presentation regarding how we 'create shared value' in our business.

Collaboration : IFC and Jain are working on a successful project JAINGAP. Coca-Cola India and Jain are working on UNNATI to cover 50,000 ha. area under ultra high density mango plantation. Similarly we work with IRRI, ICRISAT and other agricultural universities in India.

Sports

The Jain Sports Academy is the vehicle that scouts, encourages and improves the performance of sportsmen. This is a dream project of JISL Vice Chairman Ashok Jain. We give an opportunity for sportsmen to develop themselves. The main thrust of the academy is to "Catch them young, nurture and watch them grow". This is not an institution but a movement and it is completing ten years of its existence.

In Jain Sports Academy along with Fitness Program, Mental Programs, Technical Program, Diet Program, Tournaments, Match Practice, Coaching Camps and Seminars, hard work emphasized and Humility is practised.

Education

A good part of the profit that the corporation generates through business activities is invested in the promotion of the cultural, educational and social lives of the community. Our thrust on education, particularly rural and agriculture-oriented education, finds an expression in the Anubhuti chain of educational institutions.

The Anubhūti-1 residential school, located at our Divine Park campus is developed for preserving Indian heritage and culture in young minds, while preparing them for global competitiveness and competence. The Anubhūti-2 day school located in the centre of Jalgaon town provides free education, food and uniforms to the children of the most deprived below-the-poverty-line families. In addition, two rural schools and an agricultural college are established at the village of Wakod. Under the aegis of Bhaisaheb Sundarlal Malhara Potential Development Academy, we undertake many activities for the development of student's ability and aptitude to take on the challenges in the new world.
